Trial of a Timelord: The Aftermath

Join Colin Baker, Nicola Bryant and Nev Fountain as they discuss the controversial serial Trial of a Time Lord, with an emphasis on the Big Finish audios that plugged the plot holes and tied up the loose ends of this controversial season. What input did the actors have then and now on the narrative? What really happened to Peri Brown? How did Mel get back to the right place in the Doctor's timeline? Who was the Valeyard, really? What does the malleable nature of the plot reveal as a metaphor for ret cons and revisionism? WARNING: Spoilers ahead for the Big Finish sequels to Trial of a Time Lord: "Trial of the Valeyard", "The Wrong Doctor", "Peri and the Piscon Paradox" and "The Widow's Assassin".

Panelist: Colin Baker, Nicola Bryant & Nev Fountain

Doctor Who Comics with Matthew Dow Smith

Matthew Dow Smith is a writer, comic book artist, and life-long fan of Doctor Who. A frequent artist on IDW's run of Doctor Who comics, he also wrote a number of short WHO comic book stories in the US and the UK, including a 50th Anniversary comic for the BBC's Blu-Ray collection. Ask him anything about his work on the comics and writing projects.

Interviewed by Ben Taylor

WHAT IF: Eccleston had agreed to be in the the 50th Anniversary, "Day of the Doctor"?

What if there was no War Doctor? Would the 8th Doctor have been involved instead of regenerating into the War Doctor? Would we see the events that haunted the 9th Doctor during his incarnation? How would it have affected the David Tennant, Matt Smith, and Peter Capaldi eras (in retrospect and moving forward)? Our panel will attempt to speculate on the answers.

Panelist: James Harknell

Fri 7p

Sun 10a	Tea With The Doctor (VIP Special Event) (continued)	The Master After Missy's big reveal in "Dark Water," fans have taken sides to argue about whether they can accept a female Master. We'll tackle that question--but more importantly, what does the Master mean to Doctor Who? Let's talk about the character, from Delgado's appearance in "Terror of the Autons" to Missy's apparent destruction in "Death in Heaven." What kind of relationship does the Doctor have with the Master? How does their shared history tell us about both characters and about the Time Lords? And what always goes wrong with the Master's convoluted plans? Panelist(s): Heather McHale	Introducing Children to Doctor Who Doctor Who is considered to be a family show, but how do you introduce it to your family? Is there a right age to begin watching, and if so--where do you start? Panelists discuss their thoughts and experiences introducing the show to children. Panelist(s): Drew Meyer
Sun 11a	Davros - Demon, Dreamer, or Divine! Terry Molloy is the definitive Davros, portraying the character in the classic series from 1983 to 1989. He continues to reprise the role today via many of the award winning Big Finish Audio Adventures. His version of Davros has faced off against the 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th doctors, and even featured in his own four part mini-series "I,Davros". Panelist: Terry Molloy	Expanded Worlds of Who Our panel of experts will discuss the many mediums in which the Doctor Who narrative is expanded, including novels, comics, and Big Finish audios. Panelists: Matthew Dow Smith, Nev Fountain, Darren Watts, John Peel	Eight is Great: Celebrate the 8th Doctor Join a panel of ardent 8th Doctor experts for an appreciation of the Eighth Doctor. In addition to the Doctor's two iconic TV appearances, Paul McGann has reprised his role in over 70 Big Finish stories spanning the equivalent of more than 8 "seasons" worth of episodes. The 8th Doctor has also been featured in over 70 novels. This panel will highlight the very best 8th Doctor stories in all mediums. Panelists: Charles Martin, Ken Deep
Sun 12p	The Seventh Doctor: Sylvester McCoy The iconic 7 th Doctor in person. Panelist: Sylvester McCoy	Writing Who Short Fiction with Keith R. A. DeCandido Panelist: Keith R.A. DeCandido	Talkin' 'bout Regeneration The rules of regeneration have always been murky at best and they became even more muddled when the Time Lords gave the Doctor a fresh set at the end of "Time of the Doctor". From a story perspective, was that a good move? How should future regenerations be addressed? And was this a missed opportunity to address the Doctor's mortality in a longer format. Panelists: Alice Bryson, Clay Dockery, Stephen Webb, Justin M. Whitmore
Sun 1p	Sophie Aldred is Ace Sophie Aldred shares her perspective on the character development of Ace through the years, and discusses her approach to the character. We'll also discuss how Ace's character has had a long lasting impact on the new companions of the new series. What happened to Ace after season 26? Panelist: Sophie Aldred	Missing Episodes 11 missing episodes from the Second Doctor era starring Deborah Watling were found in Nigeria. We discuss how she found out they had been recovered and what it was like to watch episodes that were thought to be lost forever. Panelist: Deborah Watling	Unit: Past and Present Now that UNIT is back in the picture--with a Lethbridge-Stewart at the helm, no less--it's time to talk about the relationship between UNIT and the Doctor. Come discuss the relationships between UNIT and the Third and Fourth Doctors, as well as new-series depictions. We can talk about Brigadier & Kate Stewart, why the Doctor works with them even though they're soldiers, and whether the Doctor's really on the payroll. Panelist(s): Heather McHale

Sun 3p Nicola Bryant is Peri Nicola Bryant has portrayed the character of Perpugilliam "Peri" Brown alongside the 5th and 6th Doctors over two televised seasons (11 televised adventures). Since then, in her work for Big Finish, Nicola has expanded the character's background extensively. We now know Peri traveled with the 5th Doctor and an Egyptian Queen named Erimem for 14 adventures spanning the equivalent of 4 entire seasons, and 21 adventures spanning 5 seasons with the 6th Doctor (and counting!). Peri's background is explored in such audios as "The Reaping" and "Peri and the Pison Paradox", and many consider Nicola's wide ranging emotional exploration of the character to be a revelation. In this panel, Nicola discusses her approach to the role in the 80's and now during her reprisal in the 21st century on Big Finish. Panelist: Nicola Bryant	Doctor Who Sightseeing Abroad Where are the best places in England to see Doctor Who related locations? Our panel will discuss and show a slide show of Doctor Who filming locations and tourist sites (like the Experience) in Cardiff.
